CLIENT ADVISORY

Reminder: Active Export Vessel Web Page Reflects Common Use Terminals Only

August 8, 2008

Clients and vendors operating at the Port of Charleston please be aware that the SCSPA's Active Export Vessel web page reflects acceptance of export containers via common-use container gates only. This is not a change. It has been that way since its inception several years ago.

Licensed operators Maersk, Evergreen, CKYH and Atlanticargo manage their own gate operations and yards. The SCSPA Active Export Vessel web page does not reflect the policies of those lines and their operators.

Drivers delivering export loads to Port of Charleston facilities should be careful to note whether the box they are hauling is to be delivered to a common-use SCSPA gate or a licensed operator gate. Just because the web page reports that the SCSPA gates are receiving exports for a vessel does not necessarily mean licensed operators will receive exports for the same vessel. Licensed operators and the SCSPA may have different receiving window criteria for exports.

Please note that we have changed the text on the Active Export Vessel page to better communicate that the information listed is for common use gates only. A link in the right column will take you directly to that page.

Thank you.
